Grant Guidance for Applications Above $5000

Page 1

- Project Title: What are you calling your project?
- Date of application
- Applicant: This is the organization or governmental entity that is requesting the grant.
- Federal Tax ID: Fill in the Tax ID# of your organization. This would be the number given to you by the IRS when you applied for your 501 (C)3 status. It is not a sales tax exemption number or a social security number, followed by what type of organization you are: 501 (C)3 or 170(C)1 governmental entity.
- Follow this up with contact information: address, contact person who is responsible for the project, their phone number and email. If your organization does not have a tax ID# and you are not a governmental entity you will need to have a fiscal sponsor who can administer your grant for you and they will have to complete a fiscal sponsor form (also on the website) and submit with your application and "Using a Fiscal Sponsor" will need to be checked.
- Contact information: address, contact person who is responsible for the project, their phone number and email.
- Project Budget: This is the total amount of the cost of the project. More information will be added about the budget later in the application.
- Amount Requesting: This is the amount that you are requesting from the Foundation to apply to the project budget.
- Project Start Date and Estimated Completion: This is an estimated guess, but we typically like to see projects that can be completed within one year. If that is not the case, you may want to wait and apply later if there are items that still need to be completed, like fundraising for example.
- Type of Project: Decide whether your project fits into the Capital or Program-based description and check.
- Project Focus Area: Which one of the listed categories best fits your project? Again, check which focus area best describes your project.
- Brief Description of Organization: Explain in a couple of sentences more about your organization. Why it was organized, mission of organization, type of work that you do, who sits on the board that oversees the projects, etc.
- Brief Description of Project: This is where you can expand by describing the project, who or what it will benefit and why this project is needed. Keep it to one paragraph. Be concise in your description.
- Signature and Date: Sign and date the cover page of the application.

Page 2 – Questions of Purpose

- Describe the need or problem being addressed by this project: This question like the brief description of the project allows you to go into more detail about the "why" of the project. What needs will this project serve? What problem in our community will it address? What issue will it solve?
- Explain how this project will benefit the citizens of this county. What area or population is being served? This question answers the "Who" of the project. Who will this project serve and why is it important?
- Describe the project goals and objectives. Describe the steps you will follow to achieve goals and objectives, complete with timeline. What is the timeline for the project and how does your organization expect to achieve the goals and objectives that you have set for the project. Describe the need or problem being addressed by this project: This question like the brief description of the project allows you to go into more detail about the "why" of the project. What needs will this project serve? What problem in our community will it address? What issue will it solve?
- Will this project have long-term impact? How will this project be sustained? Larger projects obviously have greater impacts in the community. How will this project affect the community moving forward for years to come? If it needs to be sustained is there a plan for that moving forward to continue that impact or will there always be a need for grant funds for sustainability?
- Have you previously received funding from the Adams Community Foundation? If so, when? This is a simple yes or no answer. Remember that the Foundation has been in existence since 1986 so while you might not remember getting a grant at some point a grant may have been awarded. Check with the Foundation to make sure you have the correct information as you will have to list the year that a previous grant was awarded. Make sure to submit the date of your last grant report that was submitted. New applications cannot be submitted until your last grant has been completed and the report submitted.

- The project budget is where you will substantiate the income you are anticipating and the expenses that you expect to incur as a result of this project. You will need to provide documentation such as bids and/or estimates from your service providers for the expense side of the budget. Without some sort of documentation, we do not know how your numbers were derived, especially on the expense side.
- Income: You may not have numbers to put in all the categories, but it should total the amount of your total project. You are the sponsor, so any income that your organization is putting into the project should be listed under Sponsor Cash and any In-kind work from your members should be listed under Sponsor In-kind. A grant that has matching funds from the organization, while not necessary, tends to score higher. If you have applied for other grants, they should be listed as well with the date they were awarded or the date they are being awarded. Use the Other lines for anything you receive for the project that does not have a designated line. Please label what the Other means for clarification for the board. Be realistic in your numbers for fundraising and other income sources that are guesstimates. If you think it will take more than a year to raise the money for the project, it might be wise to hold off applying until you have a clearer picture of how this project will be completed.
- Expenses: In asking for a grant from the Foundation, you should know the total expense of your project. Those numbers go in the expense column. Again, provide documentation for the costs of the project, filling in the expense budget using the listed categories and using the Other categories for other items. Please label what the Other means for clarification for the board. Leave yourself time to gather those estimates before the grant deadline. Bids and estimates should be attached to complete your application. Income and Expenses should total the same amount of your project.

Finishing and Submitting the Application: After you have completed the application, proofread the application to make sure you have answered all the questions and that any errors are corrected. Incomplete applications are not considered so it is important that you include all the information requested. Send the original application that you have signed and dated along with 9 additional copies to the Adams Community Foundation, 710 Davis Ave, Corning, IA 50841. They can also be dropped off instead of being mailed. All applications must be received by Noon on the first Friday in January or June, unless it falls on a holiday and then will be due on the next business day. Don't wait until the last minute!
